STUDENT QUICK-START

Who Can Change Who Counts?

U.S. Constitution / Solo activity / 45–50 minutes

Start the newsroom shift

Open For Class and enter the name you use for class. You'll investigate a viral claim about two fictional Tacoma families. The evidence cards contain everything you need.

Work through four checkpoints

Make a prediction, read what happens, and use a specific fact or record in your answer. The four minimums are 35, 60, 55 and 100 words. Type each response in the activity and choose Record and continue. If you revise a recorded answer, record it again.

Keep your place

Open Save or pause. To continue on this device, return in the same browser and choose Resume Class. To switch devices, choose Download progress backup and keep the .json file. On the other device, open Save or pause and choose the file under Open a progress backup.

Submit the Class report

After the last checkpoint, open Report and choose Print or save as PDF. In the print dialog, choose Save as PDF. Open the saved PDF and check your name, all four answers and the line "End of Class report." Upload the PDF to Canvas and confirm your submission.

Playing on your own?

Choose For Fun to explore the same cases. Writing is optional in that mode.
